THE FALSE CRY OF THE MACUNETTES.

It is claimed by the local Macuneites were nothing more than the pliant ools of the Democratic party, subservent, selfish and unfaithful. That is now the self-glorified followers, who ake their creed from Macune instead of from the Alliance constitution, characterize a large and respectable body of Alliance members. If they are corect, if all those who took part in that meeting are as treacherous and traitorous as represented, what a den of treason, treachery, deceit and iniquity the Alliance must be. What good can be expected from an order so vicious and depraved? Common decency requires that it should be abolished instantly, wiped out absolutely, and all memory of it buried in oblivion. An order that displays such extraordinary powers of absorbing the vicious, corrupt and depraved elements of society should not be tolerated. Hence the wonder why Evans Jones and his subtreasury apostles of sweetness and light continue so long in an order, which by their own admission, is rank with treason, stratagem and spoils. Where is their self-respect?

But sensible people will hesitate long before accepting the assurances of the sub-treasuryites or subscribing to their arraignment of the respectable gentle men whose names are mentioned above. and who are fully as well known, and far more favorably than are the majority of those who fling mud at them. Those gentlemen held their meeting here because they desired to give return THE PAPERS ENTIRE to this public expression to their condemnation and detestation of what they knew to be the policy of those who are bent on prostituting the order to their own uses. That could not be done within the order while it is controlled by the men alluded to. They resent the idea of dragging the order in direct violation of its fundamental law into politics, especially when it is being done for the purpose of organizing a third party, whose evident purpose is to play into the hands of the Republican party. It has been charged publicly that Macune is in the pay of the Republican national campaign committee, and that he and divers others, instigated and subsidized by the same agency, are at the bottom of the third party conspiracy. These charges have been made, not alone by outsiders, but by the most respectable and responsible men in the Alliance. A firm belief in the charges made against him and those associated in treason with him furnished the motive and the reason for the meeting held last week. The gentlemen responsible for that meeting are not seeking office. Unlike those who abuse them they earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, and not by the activity of their jaws. They have an occupation and a calling, and are not looking for soft snaps or trying to get a living without working for it.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM.

The Atlantic cable companies have been constantly employed of late coneying intelligence to the millions of Republicans in this country of the movements of his royal nibs, the Emperor William, while on a visit to his English grandmother and her numerous progeny. Ordinarily, and beyond the limited circle in Eastern cities of some thousands of ill-balanced and purse-proud flunkies who hanker after titles and worship those tattered remnants of royalty that occasionally visit us in the guise of counts and princes, and the like, the great bulk of American citizens feel the smallest imaginable concern in the comings and going of Europe's crowned heads. It is otherwise, however, with the Hohenzollern, who for several days has been graciously exhibiting himself in all his magnificence to the beef-eaters of England. Whether leading a triumphant procession from Buckingham to Windsor. reviewing the military, speech-making or what not, every movement and every word he utters is faithfully chronicled as though he were some stray visitor of exalted wisdom and superior carriage, coming with letters of credit and an important message from a far-distant planet. It is not that William has said or done anything that divers others in the queen's or his own realm. might not have said and done far better. It is simply the glamour and the ostentation of royalty, coupled with the excessive vanity and flea-like activity of the man that has excited the curiosity of mankind in his movements. Two hundred, or one hundred years ago even, the claim which royalty made confidently to a divine right to de as it pleased, or as Bob Ingersoll says, to do wrong, impressed the common herd in a way no longer felt. Louis the XIV, Phillip II, Henry VIII Elizabeth and Catherine awed and terrorized men as well by their supposed knowledge as by their power and regal magnificence. To-day the illusions engendered by the theory of divine right no longer blind men to the actual character of kings and queens. 'All they have left to impress the public is their princely trappings, their crowns and robes and kingly retinue with whatever of brains and intellect nature has endowed them. As a rule she has not exhausted her powers in supplying them with brains, and William is no exception to the rule. In this respect they are as unfortunate as the propagators and expounders of the sub-treasury fake. William imagines himself a states man as well as a soldier. He talks with the air of a philosopher, and appears to know everything better than anybody else. Neither Gladstone or Bismarek would state a proposition in science, ethics, law or government with anything like the ex-Cathedra positiveness of the emperor. His equal on this side of the water in boldness of assurance, and cool assumption can not be found, if we pass over Tom Ochiltree or Dr. Macune. People are continually wondering what eccentricity of speech or conduct William will indulge in next, and hence the morbid curiosity felt in his movements. He can put aside an honored tradition with the same ease and sang froid with which he sent Bismarck to the right about, and has no more regard for the venerated customs and maxims of antiquity than he has for the ravings of the Socialists. His eccentricities make him famous or notorious, as you please.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

THE WRITER-July, Boston, Mass. Price $1 a year. The current number has a portrait of James Lane Allen, who is perhaps one of the most ambitious of modern writers. A native of Kentucky, and not yet thirty, Mr. Allen is fast taking a place in the foremost rank, and it is said by those who know him that his strength is yet natried and the best is to come. Among his wave recent writers is to come. Among his most recent works are the "White Cowl" and "Sister Dolorosa." that destroy ideals of monastic conventual life. The short article by John W. Fox of West Virginia, is an admirable testimonial to Mr. Allen's merit as a writer. There are some showed observations. There are some shrewd observations on Matthew Arnold's Wordsworth which are an elimination from the work of the poet as it is commonly read. There is in this number the usual helpful hints to writers what ever their chosen field. In short often been said of "The Writer," tains more for the class of readers for whom it is designed than is often to be found in a magazine of so little pretension

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE August:

Office of publication 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia: price $2a year. The colored fashion plates of modes Parisiennes for August gives some very prac-tical suggestions for simple toilets. This feature of Petersons is specially commendable, all the designs whether of costume or of work are of use to any one who consults them. There is an interesting arconsults them. There is an interesting article on spoons and spoon-cases with copies of the different styles of spoons so much sought after by collectors who indulge in the modern mania of getting together as many odd spoons as possible. Mrs. E. A. Mathew in "The Folk Lore of Colors," introduces the reader into a new field and one in which she says there is ample scope. me in which she says there is ample scope for delightful and interesting research.

Charles H. Sergel & Co., Chicago publish ers, are doing good work for the masses in issuing the better class of fiction in paper covers. The paper and type are good and the books for the price are certainly satisfactory. Among the more recent publications are "Salammbo," the masterpiece of Flamhert, and has a portreat of the certain Flambert, and has a portrait of the authority on the cover.

"Old Abraham Jackson" is also from the same house, and looking at the rugged fac-of the hero with his unkenpt hair and beardis at once prepared for the incidents of pioneer life with which the story abounds. The volumes are issued monthly. Price

The usual supply of excellent matter for home reading is to be found in this issue, and an article on baseball play, with dia-grams and explanations, makes it possible for a woman to be at least an intelligent spectator of the game and obviates the ne-cessity of her asking her big brother stupid

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL-August. Published by Curtis publishing com-pany. Philadelphia. Price $1 a year;

The opening article for the August num ber of the Journal is from the pen of a dis-tinguished contributor, Lady Macdonald, and is a description of a trip through Man-itoba and the Northwest undertaken in the interest of the writer's health, and written in a most charming, unconventional style There are also views of the Bow Rapids and of Albert canyon. This introductory paper is of so delightful a flavor that the reader will eagerly await the coming of the papers that are to follow. Ruth Ashmore, in "Types of American Girls," has something nice to say of the girl from the South who she defines as a sweet-voiced, gentle

A STARVING FAMILY.

THEY LIVE ON THE CORNER OF FIRST AND HARDIN STREETS.

A Father, Mother and Eight Children-The Father Laid Up with Rheumatism-A Sad Case.

Editor Gazette. In your issue of the 16th I noticed a case of destitution—a Mr. Brandell, Ilving on the corner of First and Hardin, with wife and ight children, perfectly destitute. I called in them and found them in want, and one on them and found them in want, and one of the children dying. I gave what I felt able to give, and hope others will render such assistance as they feel able. Yours respectfully, F. K. Gwynn. The case which the gentlemen refers to above is one that should elicit the sympathy of all who are able to contribute. The condition of these people, as he states it, is in no wise exaggerated, and may probably be underestimated. The father, who is a worthy Germen, was induced to come to this city last winter by one of the contractors here with the promise that he should receive $2.75 a day and a permanent job. He came under this assurance, bring ing with him his family, a wife and eight ing with him his lamily, a wife and eight children. When he arrived he was informed that times were dull, and that no work was to he had. The small sum of money which he had was soon spent. He was unable to find employment and was compelled to sup-port his large family with the proceeds of odd jobs which he secured whenever opodd jobs which he secured whenever op-portunity offered. Some time since he con-tracted rheumatism and since then has been utterly helpless. The family in the meantime has depended on the uncertain labors of a son, a mere boy of fifteen or sixteen. Something should be done to alleviate the sufferings of this family. alleviate the sufferings of this family. which has fallen more than its share of mis-fortune. SPORTING NEWS.

Charles Johnson, a lightweight pugilist. knocked out a local hitter named Cox at the Camp street opera house last night in one round. Johnson has taken the contract to knock out a big darkey tomorrow evening. The authorities pay no attestion to these boxing matches, although they are clearly prohibited by the state level. they are clearly prohibited by the state law enacted by the last legislature. The fact that the leading lawyers of Dailas have declared the law worthless, and the further fact that Judge Tucker of the forty-fourth judicial district court has openly declared that he will instruct his grand jury to return no indictments under the law gives great satisfaction to the sporting element.

The next event in sporting circles will be the wrestling match between J. W. Turner of Dallas and Capt. Shields of Fort Worth. The Wonderland building on Commerce street, at one time used as a church, has been engaged by the managers. It has a seating capacity of 1000. Turner is training daily. He walks out to White Rock every morning and the balance of the day is devoted to exercise at balance of the day is devoted to exercise at the gymnasium of the Dallas athletic association. It is likely that a great deal of money will be staked on this match, with the betting about even. Capt. THE IRON CITY.

Gigantic Schemes Which Bid Fair to Suc ceed Under the New Birmingham Iron and Improvement Company.

Special to the Gazette.

NEW BIRMINGHAM, CHEROKEE COUNTY, TEX., July 16.—The New Birmingham iron and improvement company has recently been incorporated, with a capital of $3.500. 000, of which $700,000 is preferred stock The object of the company is to acquire the property of the existing company, discharge all its liabilities, with sufficient cash capital to carry out their large schemes for securing active and live manufacturing enterprises, A pipe plant, with $150,000 capital, is now erecting the largest gas and water-pipe plant in the state. It is estimated that is not pipe plant in the state. It is estimated that it will have a capacity of fifty tons per day. The cash is now in the hands of the company for the completion of the plant.

What is wanted now is a rolling mill, and negotiations are constantly carried on by R. L. Coleman, president, and Mist. Goree-his energetic assistant, for that purpose Liberal cash and land donations are offered to substantial industries of all kinds.

A building association was formed to-day ough the instrumentality of Alen Arthur who has charge of the land department to erect twenty-five new houses which are im-mediately required to supply the demand. The president, Mr. R. L. Coleman, says he can use immediately fifty additional men to do the work which is pressing. He esti-mates that in the course of six months, with the proposed industries under way, there will be steady employment for 1000 additional men. In view of this and to secure an interest for the new concerns in the prosperity of the town, ilberal louns at a low rate of interest will be made to the purchasers of improved monerate or these cases. chasers of improved property, or they can make their own improvements and the com-pany will furnish them money in casy monthly installments. The company deprecates in the strongest manner any idea of a boom, but depends upon the solid base of the enormous and valuable iron deposits and a steady substantial growth. The climate leasant, the water is good and wholesome, or have the interests of the little ones been neglected, and the contract for an $8000 schoolhouse will be let this week. It's a go-ahead place and will succeed.

FIVE MEN DROWNED

Seining In the Tennessee River-Swept Into a Swift, Cold Current and

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 12.-While sein ing in the Tennessee river near Murray ye terday Ed Brown, Walter Strader, John L Meador, Dick Eaves and John L Bram were drowned. The party numbered eight They tied one end of their some, seventy-five feet long, to the bank and stretched the netting nearly straight isto the river. Stationed at intervals near the outer end the eight men with only their shoes, hats and boots off, swam with the eine poles toward the shore. None of them were well acquainted with the river at that point, and they swam into a swift cold cur-rent when one was seized with cramps. A panic followed. The seine was dragged e, Brown and Strac entangled in it. Eanes were swept by the current while the other three suc-ceeded in reaching the bank. All the men drowned were well known citizens near Murray, belonging to old families in that county. Brame moved there two years ago from near Hopkinsville. A crowd was gathered and search for the drowned be gan. The seine when hauled in still hele the three who became entangled in it Eaves and Meador have not been found
